Section: Section 1: Hybrid Operating Model | Page 1 of 3

Employees may work remotely under the conditions specified in the policy. WorkforceIQ operates under an agile hybrid model: employees are requested to collaborate in-person at designated regional tech hubs 3 days per week, with up to 2 days per week eligible for remote work. Core collaboration hours are established between 10:00 AM and 4:00 PM local time to ensure synchronous architectural standups and customer alignments.

To support effective remote operations, all regular full-time team members are eligible for a one-time Home Office Ergonomics Reimbursement of up to $500 (or local currency equivalent). Qualifying expenses include ergonomic desk chairs, external monitors, laptop docking stations, and noise-canceling headsets. In addition, an internet connectivity stipend of $50 per month is credited via monthly payroll upon submission of active broadband invoices.

Working remotely from outside the employee's country of employment is permitted for up to 30 cumulative business days per calendar year, subject to VP approval, zero-trust VPN compliance, and export control regulations. Employees handling sensitive customer personal data or proprietary AI weights must adhere to hardware-encrypted secure laptops and multi-factor biometric authentication at all times.
